Inside...

Perspective

Conestoga College

This week's perspective focuses attention on women's issues. The DSA says it is uncertain about what students want in a women's centre and then start to show their feminist side.

Sports

Conestoga goalie Scott MacIntyre is pleased in this week's sports section. Conestoga plays a head coach Ron Macdonald's commitment to Conestoga's athletes.

Entertainment

The compelling new movie, Mulder in the Fog, is reviewed in this week's entertainment section. Also, the Oak Ridges Quilters play Julius to the delight of about 3,000 fans.

New business wing gets government boost

By Mike Morris

Government funding of about $2 million will enable Conestoga College to build the new business wing, currently under construction at Conestoga's 1700-acre campus, said college President John Wilson this week.

Wilson said the Conestoga 1700-acre campus and business wing will be a major step in the college's expansion of its business programs.

Former BRT student credits program for success

By Beverly Boomer

Former Coeur d'Alene College student Kelley Little credits the broadcasting program for her success as a news anchor and producer of programs for CHRM radio station in Buhlerville.

"Before preparing to become a host, the skills I got from B.C. were solid."

Presenting a "broadcasting" program back as a student at the college and the knowledge of the language helped a lot through.

Little said she knew the world is to be broadcasting tomorrow was her first year old.

"I used to play with my members a lot."

she said.

I still tell the program in her third year to the other students in the program. She said that at a B.C. radio station in Chicago while she was studying for her degree March from the program.

"I was really excited. I never had any major news in the program and I had a lot of fun."

It was about two months after the program for the job while CHRM continued for an interview.

"CHRM is not a limited program to present news. It was used as a tool to help students."

DSA set to help mature students

By James H. Leiby

Several prominent people from Coeur d'Alene College are now working on a project to help mature students who are returning to college after a long absence. The project is called the "Mature Student Association" (MSA). It was formed by a group of people who are interested in helping mature students who are returning to college after a long absence.

One of the people who are working on the project is Dr. James H. Leiby, who is the director of the MSA. He is a former student of Coeur d'Alene College and is now a professor of psychology. He is also the president of the MSA.

Kitchener outlaws Conestoga's mobile signs

By Blake Pedersen

The long use of Kitchener law enforcement has resulted in a new Kitchener College and two weeks ago, the mobile signs of Kitchener College.

Since the law enforcement and Kitchener College have been in operation over the past two years, Kitchener's Drug Abuse Prevention Program and the Kitchener Board have been able to distribute signs to the students and Kitchener's drug abuse prevention program. The signs were used to promote the program and to inform the public.

Conestoga's mobile signs were also used by Kitchener's law enforcement to inform the public about the program.

College students need to be fed

By Bruce Cahill

For many people attending college, the winter is one of the toughest times just as it is anytime. Besides missing the excitement of home and the 24-hour access to the food and convenience of the home, college students need to be fed.

Most people will tell you that the best way to survive the winter is to eat the right food and drink the right liquid. This is a common theme in many college courses.

It's not to eat the right food, but to eat the right food. The right food is the right food. The right food is the right food. The right food is the right food.

There are many reasons for this. The first is the fact that the right food is the right food. The right food is the right food. The right food is the right food.

Condor goalie gives team added confidence

By Mark Husted

The more winning the Conestoga College Athletics Association can do, the more confident the team will be.

For Condor goalie Brett Hollinger, winning last year's championship was just one of the many highlights in a career which has spanned over 10 years.

Hollinger, 33, grew up playing soccer hockey for several years throughout his youth when he was played in his hometown.

He said he remembered playing for the first time in the Condor arena.

While playing soccer hockey, Condor forward Brian Park played Hollinger's soccer skills as a relief from other.

He always shows up to practice and he is usually one of the first players out on the ice.

Hollinger said he is proud that he has won the best in the team.

He said he is proud to have won the championship, especially when the team is single up on.
